Who can prevent your having them wrong if you don't get them at the right place? Not the average spectacle seller. His business seems to be to get your nose harassed with a pair that strikes your fancy and opens your purse.

MAY NOMINATE HEARST

STRANGER THINGS THAN THIS HAVE HAPPENED IN POLITICAL WORLD.

POLL A MILLION VOTES THIS FALL

This Is the Claim of Some of the Most Enthusiastic Workers in the Party—Others Talked of to Head Ticket.

Chicago, July 25.—A meeting of the national provisional committee of the independence party was called here today, preliminary to next week's national convention of the Hearst organization. Preliminary details of the convention work will be definitely decided and the temporary roll of the convention prepared. Mr. Hearst is in charge of the session. Reports that the party will seek a coalition with the democrats and that advances looking to this will be made to Mr. Bryan and the sub-committee of the democratic national committee, also in session here today, are denied. Mr. Hearst declares that the democratic party is dead and he will have nothing to do with it.

The independence party provisional committee numbers about three times as many members as the national committee of other parties. Each state is represented by a farmer, a labor organization man and a professional man.

Six states are not represented. Of these Kentucky and Nebraska are the most prominent.

The presidential nomination may be forced out Mr. Hearst. There is a strong feeling among the delegates that he should lead the ticket.

Cheering news of splits in the old parties in Wisconsin, Iowa and the Dakotas has been received at headquarters.

No claim of states which the nominee is expected to carry is forthcoming, but a table will be compiled claiming states in which the independence party says it will hold the balance of power.

Claims are being made by the party leaders that the Hearst organization will poll a million votes this fall. This, it is asserted, will assure the downfall of Bryan. A victory this year is not considered by any of the independence men, but they declare that with the defeat of Bryan this fall the radical element of the democratic party will abandon the Nebraskan and in the election four years hence will flock to the independence banner, thus assuring its success.

Mr. Hearst does not want the presidential nomination this year, preferring to wait until there is some chance of success. While the convention may stampede and force the nomination upon him, it is likely that his wishes will prevail, and that some other party leader will be selected to play the part of the "goat" in this year's campaign.

Although the party leaders have not come out strong as yet for any man as their standard bearer in the campaign, there is a strong sentiment, they say, for Thomas L. Hisgen, of Westfield, Mass., Mr. Hisgen ran for governor of Massachusetts two years ago on the Hearst ticket and polled a surprisingly large vote. This was encouraging to the independence party leaders. Mr. Hisgen is a member of Hisgen Brothers, oil dealers, the firm which has given the Standard Oil Co. such a hot fight for business in the New England states.

Mr. Hisgen, however, is also somewhat backward about accepting the doubtful honor and has publicly announced that he does not wish his name considered. The oil magnate prefers to run again for governor of Massachusetts.

Another possible candidate is M. W. Howard, a member of the national committee of the independence party from Alabama. He is an ex-congressman, having been elected by the populists to the fifty-fourth and the fifty-fifth congresses. He was a delegate to the democratic national convention in Chicago and in 1892, when Cleveland was nominated, but left the party soon afterward.

The independence party leaders here say that the strength of the party has grown in the south remarkably of late, and they expect to keep on growing until after the election. The party leaders say they do not expect to win this fall, but seek to bring the party and its principles before the people to open the way for future growth.

NEGROES CAN SOON VOTE WITH DEMOCRATS IF THEY SO DESIRE.

THIS IS RULING IN KANSAS CITY

Election Board Says the Law Is Clear and That No Challenges Can Be Made—You Vote Irrespective of Past Elections.

Kansas City, Mo., July 25.—"If a negro asks for a democratic ballot and offers to vote as a democrat what shall we do?" was the question submitted to the election commissioners by James Milholland, a democratic judge of election in the Fifth precinct of the Tenth ward.

"The law makes no distinction," J. M. Lowe, chairman of the election board, told him. "If a negro calls for a democratic ballot give it to him and accept his vote. He has the same legal right to vote in a democratic primary as a white man."

Milholland expressed disapproval of the idea of negroes voting at democratic primaries, but the law is plain, and there is no option left to judges and clerks. It has been a tradition among democrats that negroes, even when they were known to be democrats, were not allowed to vote at democratic primaries.

Milholland's question was the result of a controversy which has been going on along Vine street for a week. It first originated in a rumor that members of the police department were instructing negroes who are saloon keepers what part they were to take in the primaries.

The real trouble in that part of the city grows out of a contest between Cornelius Murphy and T. A. J. Mastin, candidates for members of the democratic county committee.

The contest has become so acute in the Tenth ward the democrats are paying more attention to the county notwithstanding the fact that several of the candidates who are leaders in the race for nomination live in the ward.

The law does not provide for challenging anyone, white man or black, and any citizen may vote at the primary of either party. He cannot vote at both, nor can he help a friend of the opposite party by writing the name of a candidate of the opposition party on the ticket he votes.

MR. LONG LEADING

Popular Candidate for State Auditor Seems to Be Gaining Votes.

John O. Long, of Potosi, candidate for the democratic nomination for state auditor, seems to have a lead in the race that bids fair to land him the coveted prize. Mr. Long is so well equipped for the position and has such a splendid reputation back of him, both as a citizen and public official, that the party may be sure it is making no mistake in his selection.

CHAPTER V. To the Rescue.

NISH, who had obediently followed De Jolidon and Natalie at Popoff's orders until they had entered the summer house, wriggled forward in confusion on hearing the ambassador's voice.

"Did you call me, sir?" he asked. "I most surely did call you, Mr. Nish," cried Popoff. "And I told you I was certain I saw a lady, or, rather, a lady's skirt, disappearing into that summer house. Who was she?"

"I-I don't know, your excellency," tremblingly lied Nish.

"You ought to know!" scolded Popoff. "You were standing nearer the summer house than I was. Didn't you see her at all?"

"Yes, sir—yes, I saw her, if I may say so, but I don't know who she was. I really don't. I—"

"Was she alone?" "No, your excellency, not quite alone. There was, if I may say so—there was a gentleman with her. At least he looked like a gentleman, but I didn't recognize him either."

"Well, well, well!" chuckled the ambassador, seating himself in a garden chair and eying the summer house with delightful interest. "A little flirtation, eh? Gone in there to whisper sweet nothings where no one can interrupt 'em. I wonder who they are! Now, I really wonder! Mr. Nish, I would not for the world have you think I am the least bit curious. But—I'll just sit here awhile, for a joke, and watch them come out. In the meantime, Mr. Nish, you might slip around to the rear of the summer house and see if there is another door there. If there is, you might lock it. Understand?"

"Ye—yes, your excellency!" mumbled panic-stricken Nish, scuttling away among the bushes. The little clerk never paused until he had found Sonia. To her he poured forth the whole story, gazing with wild horror as she broke into a peal of uncontrollable laughter.

Suddenly she grew sober. "Her husband will never forgive her," she murmured, half to herself. "He will never understand that it's just a silly, harmless, sentimental talk they're having."

Memories of the ways of jealous Marsovian husbands flashed into her mind. In that primitive fatherland wives had been beaten—yes, and murdered—for less. Something must be done, and done quickly.

"Don't worry!" she consoled the terrified Nish. "Say nothing to any one else. I'll get Mme. Popoff out of the scrape if I can."

Before Nish could reply she had disappeared down a path leading to the rear door of the summer house.

Meantime Popoff, his curiosity mastering him, had left his seat. Stealing forward on tiptoe, he put his eye to the keyhole of the wicker door.

He had scarcely bent over this when his hand, happening to pass by on his way to the gate, paused in amazement at sight of the Marsovian ambassador thus assuming the role of Paul Pry.

"Why, hello, old chap!" cried the prince. "What are you up to?"

"Hush!" warned Popoff in an excited whisper. "A lady went into the summer house a few minutes ago with a gentleman. I can't see them very clearly. There's too much stuff in the keyhole. But they're sitting opposite each other with only a little table between them. The lady's back is to me, but it somehow looks familiar. The man is talking as earnestly as if he were trying to borrow money. Now he's bending across and kissing her hand, and she doesn't seem to mind. It's—why, bless my soul, it's that fellow De Jolidon! Well, well! Of all things! Now, if only the lady would turn her face so I could see her!"

"Come away, sir!" begged Danilo, the whole situation bursting upon his mind. He caught Popoff's sleeve, but the ambassador shook him off.

"Let me alone!" he whispered. "Can't you see what it all means? It means we've fouled the lady De Jolidon's love with, the very woman we've both been looking for! And now if she'll just turn her head a little, I'll be able to see her face, and then—"

"Then you don't know who she is?" queried Danilo.

"No. But I'll—"

"Then take my advice and don't try to find out. Let well enough alone. Come away, old chap, and—"

"No, no! There; you pulled my head away just as she was turning around. I'd have seen her in another second. They're getting up. Maybe they'll go out by the other door, and then I shan't be able to know who—"

"Let me do the looking," suggested Danilo. "If either of us has to play the eavesdropper I'll—"

"No. It is my place," asserted Popoff. "But I'll bet you a hundred francs it's Mme. Nova Kovitch."

"It would be like stealing a drunken man's watch. I won't take the bet. Come away, sir, and let the matter drop where it is. For your own happiness—"

But Popoff was once more at the keyhole.

"They're standing up to go," he reported. "Now she's beginning to face this way. It's—Oh, good Lord!"

The poor old man staggered away from the door as though struck between the eyes. Reeling to a chair, he collapsed and buried his face in his hands.

"No, no! It can't be! It can't!" he moaned. "And yet I could hardly be mistaken. My wife! And—"

"Brace up, your excellency!" entreated Danilo in genuine distress. "Pull yourself together. There are people coming along the walk. Don't make a scene. Perhaps you were mistaken."

"No! I saw her!" groaned Popoff. "My own wife and De Jolidon! And he kissed her hand."

"Oh, I dare say she was more kissed against than kissing!" Danilo observed consolingly. "But be careful, sir. A whole lot of people are within earshot."

"Then let them know the worst!" cried Popoff in a voice that brought a number of guests hurrying to the spot. "I'll denounce her before them all! Come out of there, if he bellowed, rushing forward, 'both of you! Come out!'"

He threw the summer house door wide open and shrunk back, incredulous, agast.

On the threshold stood De Jolidon and—Sonia!

"What—what does this mean?" gurgled the confused ambassador, "this—this change and—"

"You called to us to come out," returned Sonia calmly. "May I ask what you wanted of us?"

"Sonia!" gasped Danilo, and through the confusion of many excited voices she heard him and thrilled to the note of anguish in his half stifled cry.

"If—if it was you who were in there with M. de Jolidon," stammered Popoff, "where is my wife?"

"Here I am, dear," answered Natalie, stepping out of the crowd, with which she had mingled after her hurried exit through the rear door of the summer house. "Here I am! What is the matter?"

"Matter enough!" cried her husband. "I could have sworn I saw you sitting in that arbor with M. de Jolidon."

"My dear!" Natalie's exclamation was a triumph of shocked propriety.

"He was kissing your hand, I thought," went on the dazed ambassador.

This time Natalie moved away from him in offended dignity. But Popoff hastened to throw his arm about her and draw her back.

"I was wrong," he assured her—"a blunder of eyesight! I apologize! I'm sorry, I—"

"I begin to understand," put in Sonia, stepping forward in fear lest Natalie overdo her pose of virtuous indignation. "It seems that the Marsovian ambassador has done me the honor to listen at a keyhole in hopes of overhearing my conversation. Sooner than disappoint him, M. de Jolidon, will you please repeat to him just what you said to me in there?"

De Jolidon understood. If Natalie was to be saved, if Sonia was not to be talked about, heroic measures were necessary.

"I asked Mme. Sonia Sadowa," said he, "to do me the honor to become my wife."

Danilo stood motionless, his lips set in a white line, amid the buzz of congratulations and laughter that followed De Jolidon's announcement. Sonia noted his agony and said joyfully to herself:

"My prince, I think I've won! You'll have to speak, soon or late, now, and when you do—"

"And Marsovia loses the twenty millions!" Popoff muttered, recovering his self-possession and somewhat belatedly remembering his country's needs.

"Prince," called Sonia mischievously.

ly. "I haven't heard your congratulations yet. You don't look as happy as you might at the news."

"Happy!" echoed Danilo, with a scornful, mirthless laugh. "Why shouldn't I be? Accept my congratulations, my paternal blessing and anything else you choose to levy on me for. My own motto is, 'Love when you may, propose seldom and marry—not at all!'"

"Let me tell you a little fairy story: There were once a prince and a princess. They loved each other. But the prince was poor and dared not tell of his love for fear of being thought a fortune hunter. His silence made the princess angry. So she went and promised her hand to another man, and they all lived miserably unhappy ever after. And the moral of that stupid little story is that I'm sick of my crazy ability, and I'm awake from my dream of love, and I'm going back to Maxim's, and you can all go to—Marsovia!"

"He loves me! He loves me!" panted Sonia under her breath.

CHAPTER IV. The Waltz.

"DANCE with me!" repeated Sonia. The faroff orchestra had struck up a dashing, gay Marsovian air. Impelled by the music and her glance of daring, Danilo sprang forward.

In an instant the two were whirling madly amid the intricacies of a wild Russian dance such as has for countless centuries been performed from Siberia's ice plain to Tartar steppes—a dance of youth, agility, utter abandon.

Yet as they came panting to a halt at the last crashing note of music the face of neither reflected the exhilaration the swift motion and stirring measures usually evoked. In fact, Danilo's brow wore a very perceptible scowl. Sonia, too, was downcast. Had her rash experiment failed?

"You didn't enjoy that," said she. "Not especially," he confessed. "Did you?"

"No. You don't dance as well as you did."

"You've probably grown to prefer French partners," he replied, piqued at the reflection on his dancing.

"From all I hear," she retorted, "you have little right to reproach me on that score. You dance a good deal! Maxim's, don't you?"

"Now and then," he admitted. "And with what sort of partners, I wonder?" she scoffed, a touch of scorn in her sweet voice.

"With polite ones," said Danilo feebly.

She winced ever so little at the reproach and went on.

"I suppose you dance better with them than with me."

"Possibly," he agreed. "You see, I, too, may prefer French partners."

She raised her great dark eyes to his, a world of meaning in them.

"Do you?" she asked, almost in a whisper.

The distant orchestra had been playing again, this time not a native air, but a dreamy, infinitely sweet Viennese waltz. The opening notes of the haunting melody, though softened by distance, were wafted none the less distinctly to the listening couple.

Again their eyes met. With a mutual impulse they drew toward each other. Then began a dance as different from the stately conventional ballroom waltz as moonlight differs from a gasoline flare. With more than a hint of the free, marvelously graceful poses of Slavonic dancers, Danilo and Sonia began their wondrous waltz.

Throwing herself back into the strength of his circling embrace, the girl's outstretched arms swayed like wind-blown lilies in rhythm with the music, her light step scarcely touching earth as the prince guided her through the mazes of the dance.

It was a strange, dexterous blend of east and west, of lissom oriental posturing and of gliding, modern waltz steps—the very poetry of motion. Nor from the first note until the last strain of music died away did either dancer's eyes leave the other's.

Love, eager and eternal, was in the gaze of each. Ere said openly to eye

Then a last dreamy chord and the music was hushed. Danilo and Sonia started, amazed, as though from some vision of paradise. The widow, fearful lest by impulsive word she might wreck her plan of bringing Danilo to her feet, darted breathlessly away to welcome a new group of guests. The prince, left alone, stared after her, open-mouthed. A clapping of applauding hands aroused him.

"Bravo, bravo, my dear prince!" wheezed the ambassador, toddling forward. "What a delightful little dance! But is it customary to catch one's partner in a jiu jitsu grip like that, or is it a fashion that has come in since my waltzing days?"

The old bore's feeble jest brought Danilo quickly back to earth and to a sense of everyday surroundings.

"Were you looking for me?" he asked, none too civilly.

"Only to see if you had succeeded yet in finding who the lady is with whom De Jolidon is in love. She must be made to win him away from any ideas of marrying the widow."

"To blaze with that and all the rest of your silly plans!" shouted Danilo.

husband pocketed," he said, handing it to her.

"Thank goodness!" Natalie exclaimed, seizing it; then:

"Lend me a pencil."

She wrote a sentence on the fan directly beneath the three words he had scribbled the night before at the ball.

"There," she sighed, handing it to him; "keep that as a reminder."

He held the fan up to the light and read:

"I am—a dutiful—wife."

"Remember that always," she adjured.

"Natalie!" he cried passionately. "It is true—I am a dutiful wife. If I have been foolish enough to listen to your lovemaking, at least I have never encouraged it. I have always rebuffed you for conscience's sake. I am a dutiful—"

"Why remind me of the hopelessness of my love?" murmured De Jolidon. "You may refuse to reciprocate it, but you cannot prevent my telling you—"

"But I can. After this evening we must not meet again. My husband trusts me. This must be our farewell interview. Don't try to alter my purpose. I have made up my mind. After this evening I shall never—"

"Natalie, you can't mean—"

"I do. This is the last talk we two shall ever have together."

"Then," implored De Jolidon, "if it is really to be our farewell interview, why must we talk here in the garden, where at any moment others may come to claim your attention? Grant me a final half hour of your society all to myself. Let the talk be uninterrupted. Let us sit in the little summer house over there. See—it is empty."

They entered the little inclosed arbor. It was lighted by a string of Japanese lanterns, and two rustic chairs were at opposite sides of its round center table. There was a door at each end of the tiny room—an ideal spot for a tete-a-tete chat now that the moonlight had wooed most of the guests out of doors.

The light wicker door swung shut behind the couple. Natalie quite enjoyed the prospect of listening to her adorer's melodramatic words of farewell and of posing heroically as a self-sacrificing, dutiful wife. In half an hour at most she would rejoin her husband with the righteous consciousness in her heart of having dismissed forever the one man besides Popoff who had ever made love to her.

So interested was Natalie in De Jolidon's parting speech that she did not hear the ambassador, just outside, declare excitedly:

"Nish, I'm sure I saw that summer house door close behind a lady's skirt! Let's see who is in there!"

that will give you more surprise than pleasure."

Dusk was falling. Above the myriad colored lights that dotted the garden the moon was rising. Along one of the hedged paths leading to the summer house a man and a woman were strolling—Mme. Natalie Popoff and M. de Jolidon.

"And so your worthy husband set you the task of finding out whom I am in love with?" De Jolidon was saying.

"Yes," the ambassador's young wife answered. "He is afraid you will marry the widow."

"Why shouldn't I?" queried De Jolidon jokingly. "You told me to."

"But—but you won't, will you?" she pleaded. "Why don't you look at me! What are you looking at?"

De Jolidon's eye had fallen on the fan where it lay forgotten on the table. "The fan you lost and that you

A Kind Deed.

At a meeting of a Band of Mercy class in a small town near Denver each child relates the kind deed he or she has recently done. One day the teacher asked little Emily to relate the kind deed she had done. She quickly rose and said:

"I took off a tin can tied to a little dog's tail." The teacher asked: "Did you know who tied it on?" "Yes," replied Emily, with hesitation. "I didn't know any kind deed to report, so I tied it on so that I could take it off."

GAMES KEPT 'KIDS BUSY'

SPRINGFIELD, MASS., HAD CELEBRATION QUITE UNIQUE FOR FOURTH OF JULY.

IT WAS AN INTERNATIONAL AFFAIR

Children Busy With Games, Athletic Contests, Etc., and Had No Time for Fireworks—Twelve Nations Represented.

BY MARY VIDA CLARK.
(Exclusive Service Charities and The Commons Press Bureau.)

New York, July 25.—In all the clamor against the fire and blood and tetanus of the Fourth of July there are mighty few practical suggestions of new kinds of celebration. Springfield, Mass., has such a suggestion—more than that, for it was tried this year, and it worked.

One of the formulas of Springfield's success appeared to be—so completely occupy the boys and girls as to leave a minimum of time for the devastation of life, limb and property that inevitably results from too much playing with fire.

A procession of school boys, forming at 8 o'clock and marching at 9, followed immediately by outdoor singing and speech making, with a balloon ascension at noon to finish off the morning; games and folk dances, athletic contests and boat races beginning an hour later and lasting until it was time for band concerts and public fireworks.

All this gave the boy who was set on blowing up himself or setting fire to his own or his neighbor's house hard work to empty his hands for the works of Satan. As a result the fire engines stayed in their stations and the doctors took a holiday.

While the astute committee, which had the day in charge, deserves credit for its indirect life saving work, its more significant contribution to the celebration of the day was its interesting conception of the spirit of nationality that our great American holiday might be made to express.

For once the contribution to American life made by the Pilgrims and the Puritans was put in its place, a large and important place, but not the whole, and some other and more recent contributions to our civilization were also given a place.

The various nationalities represented in the city were invited to join the procession, presenting themselves in whatever national aspect they might select. Some twelve responded, all, in fact, except the Jews, who were obliged to decline because the Fourth fell on Saturday.

The nations came in huge floats, sailing majestically up the main street. First came the Swedes in a Viking ship with stalwart yellow-haired rowers at the oars; the English recalled the Magna Charta; the Scotch showed their Queen Mary, preceded by bare-kneed killed Highlanders, swinging along with their tartans flying, blowing real bagpipes; the Irish delved into their remote past and produced "Columille pleading for the Bards."

There are some 2,000 Greeks in the city, and the men, whose mellifluous names distinguish our candy and flower shops, arrayed in classic robes with flowing beards, showed us Socrates, Plato, Pericles and Lycurgus; and there followed after them, with graceful symbolism, some fifty young Greeks holding the sides of a huge American flag, while over their shoulders they carried smaller flags of their national blue and white.

The adaptable Italians, eager to prove their present glorious like their past, followed up their Michelangelo and Galileo with Marconi. The French, coming by way of Canada, with special appropriateness for this year, exhibited Champlain in his boat on the St. Lawrence.

William Tell was recalled by the Germans. The Chinese graciously conceded a native orchestra and a huge barge of wonderful tapestries, but showed their personal preference by wearing American clothes and riding in hacks.

Rug merchants from Armerie displayed themselves and their families in gorgeous embroideries, against a background of magnificent hangings. The Syrians posed in a splendid Oriental court scene; the Poles furnished a band. A group of fine looking negro veterans from a regiment that took Fort Wagner was the only reminder of the civil war. The procession was further enriched by Buffalo Bills' entire show, which chanced to be visiting the city that day with Col. Cody himself on a beautiful horse at the head.

At the end of the route the procession turned on itself, so that the thousands of school boys wearing cotton soldier suits and carrying wooden guns had an opportunity to see the apotheosis of their "dago" school

If You Read This

It will be to learn that the leading medical writers and teachers of all the several schools of practice recommend, in the strongest terms possible, each and every ingredient entering into the composition of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery for the cure of weak stomach, dyspepsia, catarrh of stomach, "liver complaint," torpid liver, or biliousness, chronic bowel affections, and all catarrhal diseases of whatever region, name or nature. It is also a specific remedy for all such chronic or long standing cases of catarrhal affections and their resultants, as bronchitis, throat and lung disease (except consumption) accompanied with severe coughs. It is not so good for acute colds and coughs, but for lingering, or chronic cases it is especially efficacious in producing perfect cures. It contains Black Cherry bark, Golden Seal root, Bloodroot, Stone root, Mandrake root and Queen's root—all of which are highly praised as remedies for all the above mentioned affections by such eminent medical writers and teachers as Prof. Bartholow, of Jefferson Med. College; Prof. Hare, of the Univ. of Pa.; Prof. Finley Ellingwood, M. D., of Bennett Med. College, Chicago; Prof. John King, M. D., of Cincinnati; Prof. John M. Scudder, M. D., of Cincinnati; Prof. Edwin M. Hale, M. D., of Hahnemann Med. College, Chicago, and scores of others equally eminent in their several schools of practice.

The "Golden Medical Discovery" is the only medicine put up for sale through druggists for like purposes, that has any such professional endorsement—worth more than any number of ordinary testimonials. Open publicity of its formula is the best possible guaranty of its merits. A glance at this published formula will show that "Golden Medical Discovery" contains no poisonous, harmful or habit-forming drugs and no alcohol—chemically pure, triple-refined glycerine being used instead. Glycerine is entirely unobjectionable and besides is a most useful agent in the cure of all stomach as well as bronchial, throat and lung affections. There is the highest medical authority for its use in all such cases. The "Discovery" is a concentrated glyceric extract of native, medicinal roots and is safe and reliable. A booklet of extracts from eminent medical authorities, endorsing its ingredients mailed free on request. Address Dr. E. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

mates, and the boys who represented on barges scenes from the history of Springfield (nothing has happened in Springfield worth dressing up for since the days of the Indians) could compare their makeup with their painted and feathered prototypes from the Wild West show.

Surely no citizen of Springfield, young or old, could see such a historic pageant of races and nationalities without gaining some appreciation of the nature of the modern contribution to our national life, or could help having his outlook broadened by some glimpses of the American of the future that is to come out of this mingling of races and race ideals, or could fail to see the great possibilities for improvement in the amalgamation of many of these people bringing traditions of such beauty and nobility.

It does the intolerant young American no harm to be reminded that the ancestors of his Greek and Italian schoolmates may have dwelt in marble halls while his were naked savages, roaming in the woods, even though he has a personal preference for the naked savage.

PAINT COST SAVED

HUGHES CRESCENT COTTAGE PAINT

The best paint is always the cheapest—a great deal the cheapest. One paint, costing but a mere trifle more than another will often last twice as long.

There is no kind that lasts longer, while the cost is no greater than most paints with inferior wearing qualities. CRESCENT COTTAGE PAINT should have a little oil added to it, and this reduces its cost to less than that of lead and oil, while, owing to the scientific combination of lead and zinc it contains, it outwears lead every time. If you are thinking of buying any paint soon come in and let us tell you more about it.

FASHIONS AND FADS

Hair ribbons are the rage. Jewels are less worn publicly. Corals are exceedingly smart with white dresses.

Rows of stiff puffs no longer appear in the coiffure.

Young girls employ Grecian styles in their hair arrangement.

Fall costumes will almost undoubtedly be of supple fabrics.

The Colante is the latest name for the famed Directoire gown.

For buttons and studs, corals and pearls are in the highest favor.

Only women past middle age now wear the hair piled high on the head.

The value of green has never been more impressive than it is just now.

Pique has been revived and promises to become a passion by next year.

Broadcloths of light weight will figure largely in the autumn frocks.

Velvet will be much worn this winter, and satin will be universally seen.

Satin finished wools and wool materials are much in demand by dealers.

The little white snowflower with yellow heart is seen on many of the best hats.

Chiffon velvet will, as for some time, lead in favor for dinner and evening gowns.

Silk patchwork, now much in favor, is a revival coincident with the patriotic renaissance.

Twenty million feathers are sent from Germany to England every year for millinery purposes.

With the Grecian knot in the coiffure are permitted a few graceful curls or a chance puff.

Satin Egyptian, a silk with a woolen warp, is a smart material well adapted to the Directoire modes.

Small sunflowers, placed among luxuriant roses, appear in some of the latest millinery creations.

Little girls sometimes wear two huge bows, one at the nape of the neck and one at the crown of the head.

Merry Widow earrings—which are really early Victorian—are as with semi-precious stones, and they are a great fad.

Many of the best hair specialists have taken to kerosene and crude petroleum as the best dressing for the scalp and hair.

Diagonal striped worsteds are the very latest cry in worsteds, and will make some of the smartest street suits.

The new satins are being manufactured in especially firm textures to resist the strain of the close-fitting skirt.

Dyed Panama hats are in great favor for outing wear. Usually an Indian scarf is wound about the head-piece thus transformed.

The white linen collar is worn with tailored waists, and beautiful hand-embroidered ones can be had for comparatively little.

Physicians now urge that the powder puff and pad be discarded as germ carriers, and that absorbent cotton be used in their place.

No German bride wears pearls, believing in the adage, "The more pearls a woman wears on her wedding day, the more tears she will shed in after life."

A new self-colored damasse design in silk is called directoire damasse. This is light in weight, elastic yet firm, and is similar in texture to toulaine.

Parisian hair dressers are seriously discussing the probable revival of powdered hair. This would only be in line with the spirit of present fashions.

Gownes made from sheer materials are much less severe than those made of the heavy. They follow the princess model and are worn over slips of the same or contrasting color.

Half an ounce of refined borax dissolved in half a gallon of water makes the best hot water beauty bath. A dash of toilette water adds to it an agreeable sense of luxury.

One of the latest freaks of the fashion maker is the catching up of the skirts of elaborate gowns a trifle at the front or one side to show the smart dressing of the foot.

The shawl scarf promises to become a passion, and there is even ground for the belief that the old-fashioned shawl for general wear may return in all its glory and comfort.

Some very pretty costumes, lace effect, are those with a short plaited skirt of serge or linen, with a half loose jacket of silk, whether of cerise, green, natter blue or copper.

The newest neck fixing is made of crisply plaited tulle in the shape of a ruff, centered with a band of gold or silver tinsel ribbon which ties at the front in the shape of a prim square bow.

The gymnasium suit bathing dress is an innovation that seems eminently practical, as the bloomers look exactly like skirts and thus do away with one gormet, or, rather, combine two garments in one.

Parisian dressmakers have for two seasons been refusing to make up contrasting belts, holding that the effect was poor: "a belt of the same color assists, a belt of contrasting color detracts."

The latest thing in checked skirts is that formed somewhat on the line of the sun-plaited bias garment. At the top of the waist the checks are infinitesimally small. They gradually enlarge until at the back of the head they are immense.

Parasols are always a very important part of the summer addenda, and the latest Parisian examples are provided with long directoire handles, the tops covered to about three or four inches in depth with a curious casing gathered silk or satin to match the shade.

Prominent among the most fashionable productions of the present season are the dainty lace coats that are so delightfully cool for summer wear, and which, moreover, seem to boast a distinctive charm of their own, possibly, no doubt, because of the undoubted beauty of the fabric of which they are composed.

Black patent leather slippers or low ties with silk stockings, colored, are the newest things. These stockings and bows do not necessarily match anything else in the costume, but they are in all cases, harmonious with the other tones employed. In some cases the heels of the black shoes are the same color as the bows and stockings.

Among the newest negligees the feature which readily commands itself on account of its convenience, simplicity and easy development is the matinee or dress sack with body and sleeves in one. Sometimes this garment is confined to the waist line by a ribbon belt, but more often the ribbon confines it at the neck and trim sleeve, either slashed at the upper or lower side, has its edges attached by narrow ribbons, the color of the figure in the material.

Bags or pockets are usually embroidered in some dainty design, being closed with a buttoned-down flap, or drawn upon ribbons. Linen in all colors is used, blues, greens, and pinks, to match the costumes which they complete. Both bags and belts are very easily made, and with very little expense elastic, embroidered with jet or steel, having buckles to match, is another favored style, the Castle usually matching the skirt in tone. Very attractive belting of this sort may be obtained and attached to any buckle harmonizing in color.

A new and curious development in the matter of hair adornment, and which has the rare merit of representing a complete novelty in this connection has made its appearance. This consists of a narrow band of gold tissue, to which are affixed on one side three soft pompons of pale gold silk, piled one above the other in pyramid form. The pompons are about the size of a tangerine orange, and are not a little suggestive of the three golden apples whose attractive glitter robbed the fleet-footed Atalanta of victory.

Anamosa, For Representative

George W. Anamosa, the above picture being a splendid likeness, who is seeking the republican nomination for representative, is a self-made man, earning his way through the high school by delivering newspapers for the Democrat and other Sedalia papers. He earned his way through the state and Yale universities, by his own efforts, unaided. He comes before the republicans a clean, upright and honest young man, asking their support.

Mr. Anamosa, or "Annie," as he is commonly called by his friends, has always been a fighter for right and against official corruption. Should the republicans nominate him at the August primary, he will no doubt cause the democratic nominee considerable anxiety before the November election.

City Attorney W. W. Blain Friday filed information against H. W. Harris, president of the Third National bank, for exceeding the automobile speed limit. Representative E. E. Johnston Did Effective Work at Last Assembly.

Representative E. E. Johnston, who is a candidate for re-nomination, has lived in Pettis county over a quarter of a century and is today one of the foremost citizens, a leading democrat, and has a record for honesty and cleanliness which stands unassailed, and every trust reposed in him has never been betrayed. He is fearless in the performance of his duties, is aggressive and enterprising.

Pettis county never had a more zealous representative than Mr. Johnston, and the success he has achieved in matters of interest locally and state-wide, is proof of his sincerity and faithfulness to his constituents. He works with an earnestness and desire to excel which has gained for him the general respect of his colleagues, who regard him as one of the most aggressive and persistent, yet upright and earnest, members of the house.

Mr. Johnston has been instrumental in having some of the best laws on the statutes enacted, the most important of which, on account of their general goodness, being the compulsory attendance at school law and the sixteen-hour railroad law, the latter affecting and serving to protect thousands of railroad men.

While attentive to affairs which concern the state generally, he never overlooks his home people in the slightest, and has always given them his very best service when anything that would serve to benefit Sedalia and Pettis county arises.

He was particularly effective and splendid service for the Missouri state fair, which institution was given especial care and attention by him throughout the sessions, securing $200,000 as an appropriation to aid in the continued growth of the fair.

Mr. Johnston's record as legislator is brilliant and clean and his past experience will redound to future successes. He should, on account of his ability and patriotism receive the votes to return him to the next assembly to again represent Pettis county, and his past good service will doubtless give him the deserved honor.

S.S.S. DRIVES OUT S.S.S. BLOOD HUMORS

The skin is not simply an outer covering of the body, but through its thousands of pores and glands it performs the great and necessary work of regulating our temperatures, and also assists in disposing of the refuse and waste matters of the system by the constant evaporation that goes on through these little tubes. To perform these duties the tissues and fibres which connect and surround the pores and glands must be continually nourished by pure blood. When from any cause the circulation becomes infected with impurities and humors, it loses its strengthening powers and begins to disease and irritate the delicate tissues, and produces Eczema, Acne, Tetters, or some other itching, disfiguring skin trouble. S. S. S. cures skin diseases of every kind by going down into the circulation and neutralizing and removing the impurities and humors. It changes the quality of the blood from an acid, fiery fluid to a cooling, health-producing stream, which, instead of irritating and inflaming the skin, cures and nourishes it by its soothing, healthful qualities. Salves, washes, lotions, etc., may be used for any temporary comfort or cleanliness they afford, but skin diseases cannot be cured until S. S. S. has purified the blood. STORY OF ELEVEN POOR BOYS

Possibilities in This Country Are Beyond Comparison.

John Adams, second president, was the son of a grocer of very moderate means. The only start he had was a good education.

Andrew Jackson was born in a log hut in North Carolina, and was reared in the pine woods, for which the state is famous.

James K. Polk spent the earlier years of his life helping to dig a living out of a new farm in North Carolina. He was afterwards a clerk in a country store.

Millard Fillmore was a son of a New York farmer and his home was an humble one. He learned the business of a clothier.

James Buchanan was born in a small town in the Allegheny mountains. His father cut the logs and built the house in what was then a wilderness.

Abraham Lincoln was the son of a wretchedly poor farmer in Kentucky, and lived in a log cabin until he was 21 years old.

Andrew Johnson, was apprenticed to a tailor at the age of 10 years by his widowed mother. He was never able to attend school and picked up all the education he ever had.

Ulysses S. Grant lived the life of a village boy, in a plain house on the banks of the Ohio river until he was ten years old.

James A. Garfield was born in a log cabin. He worked on a farm until he was strong enough to use carpenter's tools, when he learned the trade. He afterwards worked on a canal.

Grover Cleveland's father was a Presbyterian minister, with a small salary and a large family. The boys had to earn their living.

William McKinley's early home was plain and comfortable, and his father was able to keep him at school.

'Twas NOT HIS TURN

Preacher Was So Advised by Leader of the Choir.

The Rev. Brooks Mason, of Plainfield, N. J., is 97 years of age. He still retains, however, all his faculties. Thus, in a recent interview, he said of Easter music:

"I like to hear special Easter music, I like churches to provide fine music at all times; but there are cases on record where the music has been given too prominent a place.

"An eloquent brother divine from South Carolina once told me that, going to preach at a strange church, he was taken aside by a deacon who whispered:

"Beez pardon, sir, but I must ask you not to preach longer than ten or twelve minutes. It's the music that the people come here for."

"That was wrong. But worse still was the case of a supply preacher in a church famous for its anthems and choruses. The stranger, not noticing the scraping and tuning of the fiddles, rose and began to preach when the choir leader jumped up and shouted angrily to him from the choir loft at the other end of the church:

"Sit down, man! When it's your turn we'll tell you."

Roads Too Narrow for Motors.

The run through picturesque Japan was attended by difficulties of their was attended by difficulties of their Times. The roads were native roads, naturally built in consonance with the diminutive Japanese stature. They were too narrow for motor cars of the regulation tread and built so steep at times that the precipitous ascents were seemingly almost perpendicular. These ascents no motor car could mount, and it was over these that coolies were employed to haul the car and lower it on the other side, a task more difficult than its uphauling, and attended by more danger to car and occupants.

Over this road, which might well have discouraged less resolute men, the Thomas car still continued its record breaking habit, and it made the trip in three days to Tsunaga, beating the time of the French and Italian cars, which had preceded it across the island.

Margaret Anglin's Big Hit.

Several erroneous reports relative to Margaret Anglin's Australian debut have been published from time to time, and it is now possible to give authentic information relative to her first appearance in the Anti-Podes, says the New York Morning Telegraph.

It was neither in "The Great Divide" nor "The Awakening of Helena Ritchie," that she made her bow before J. C. Williamson's constituents in Sydney, but in "The Thief."

Her hit, according to long cable messages from herself and Louis Netherstone to Henry Miller, was of a 44-caliber size. The receipts at the opening performance were $1,000 and the Sydney papers hailed her as "the greatest emotional actress that ever visited Australia."

Money—Money—Money.

If you wish to corner money on real estate, or if you wish to loan money on real estate, in either case be sure and see me before doing business.—G. M. Riddle, the real estate and loan man, 310 Ohio street, over Guenther's store, Sedalia, Mo.

How He Turned the Trick.

Oscar Hammerstein, at a recent dinner, described a contemplated cast for "Thies" wherein the principals' salaries alone would aggregate $10,000 a night.

"But you know," said Mr. Hammerstein, "perfection is always expensive."

"Napoleon never breakfasted at the same hour. Now he would breakfast at 7, now at 11, now at 10. Yet, whenever he rang his breakfast, a young broiled chicken, was always brought immediately to him, cooked to perfection, just off the grill."

"One morning Napoleon sent for his cook and said with a pleased laugh:

"How do you manage it that, no matter when I breakfast, my chicken is always ready, done to a turn?" "Sire," said the cook, "every ten minutes I put a fresh chicken on to broil. Thus one is always perfectly done for you when you ring."

BIRTHDAY OF THE STATE

NEW YORK WAS ELEVENTH TO ENTER THE SISTERHOOD OF STATES.

MR. FISH NOW MOTORING IN EUROPE

Says It Is Easier for a $15 a Week Man to Live on $10 Than for a $250,000 Gentleman to Come Down to $50,000.

New York, July 25.—New York is too much occupied with the present to consider its past. For that reason it is likely that not one person among a thousand will remember that tomorrow is the birthday of the great Empire state. It was 120 years ago, on July 26, 1788, that a state convention, meeting in Poughkeepsie, ratified the constitution of the United States and New York thus entered the union as the eleventh among the sisterhood of states.

History records that the ratification of the constitution was not accomplished without a fierce struggle. Governor Clinton, whom New York recently honored with glorious burial, led the opposition, declaring that "the liberties of the people would be destroyed" by entering the Union. Alexander Hamilton and John Jay were the leaders of the Union forces in that memorable struggle, on which the fate of the new nation hinged.

Without New York the Union would have been divided, leaving the new states to the north and south, which had already ratified the constitution, separated and disjointed. It was only by a majority of three that the ratification was carried, thirty of the members of the convention voting for entrance into the Union and twenty-seven casting votes against that proposition.

It is interesting, but profitless, to consider what might have followed had the vote on ratification been reversed and New York elected to retain an independent state. That such a course, escaped by so narrow a margin, would have had a profound effect upon the future of the incipient republic, and might have changed the entire course of history appears probable.

My heartfelt sympathy goes out to Mr. Stuyvie Fish, multimillionaire and former president of the Illinois Central railroad. Mr. Fish is now motoring in Europe, but before leaving he let fall a few words of wisdom which New York is still discussing. Briefly, Mr. Fish's proposition that it is easier for a $15 a week man to accustom himself to an income of $10 than for a $250,000 a year gentleman to come down to the grinding poverty of $50,000.

I am inclined to agree with Stuyvie. It must be particularly galling for one accustomed to owning a score of automobiles, for instance, to be forced to reduce the garage to a paltry half dozen machines. To be able to afford the services of only twenty servants, when one is accustomed to a hundred, is but little short of tragedy. Think, too, of the poor women who have to wear the same gown two or three times—the horror of it fairly wrings my heart strings—and who are unable to indulge in monkey dinners and butterfly banquets.

Of course, a $15 a week man may and does have his troubles. His wife and children may die because of lack of proper food and medical attention. There is always the probability of his $10 a week income being cut down to nothing a week, which, even Mr. Fish would admit, might occasion some inconvenience.

But these minor ills, of course, are mere airy nothings when compared with the deep despair which must seize upon the soul of the rich man, suddenly forced to eke out a scanty subsistence on the same meager income of a president of the United States.

Let it be said, however, that the impoverished wealthy of New York are bearing up bravely under the burden. Some of them even joke about it. Poverty has become quite a fad, and more than one fashionable matron has calmly admitted to her intimates that she will be unable to make her customary European tour this year, owing to the lankness of hubby's purse. Such heroic bravery in the face of such a terrible catastrophe is worthy of all praise.

Once again the country is to be saved. Another mighty leader has issued a clarion call of reform, and the Hearst hosts are hastening to Chicago, there to do honor to their peerless chieftain. It will probably be the greatest assemblage of editors, reporters, rewrite men, sporting authorities, circulation managers, copy boys, cartoonists, artists and telegraph operators ever gathered in a national convention to nominate a candidate for president of the United States. New York will supply a considerable portion of the delegates, and the Hearst papers of this city will in consequence be deprived of much of their talent during the next few days.

For several weeks the independent party delegates have been put through daily stunts, designed to increase the lung development, and are in prime condition to break all long distance cheering records when their chief appears on the convention platform on Monday. The convention will last two days, according to the schedule, and as at least two or three hours will be required to transact business matters, the time limit allotted for cheering will be necessarily limited. It is practically certain, however, to eclipse Mr. Bryan's record and make the Taft enthusiasts look like pikers.

Mr. Hearst has as yet made no definite announcement as to whom he will nominate as president. It is understood that he desires to sidestep the honor, believing that his chances will be improved four years hence. Nell Brinkley, the talented young artist of the Evening Journal, has been prominently mentioned, but her sex and extreme youth are against her. At least one of these objections applies to Ella Wheeler Wilcox. "Tad" is well thought of and it is believed would carry the pugilists' vote. John Temple Graves, formerly of Atlanta, but now of the New York American, is looked upon favorably, as it is thought he would be able to secure a majority in his home precinct in the Georgia metropolis.

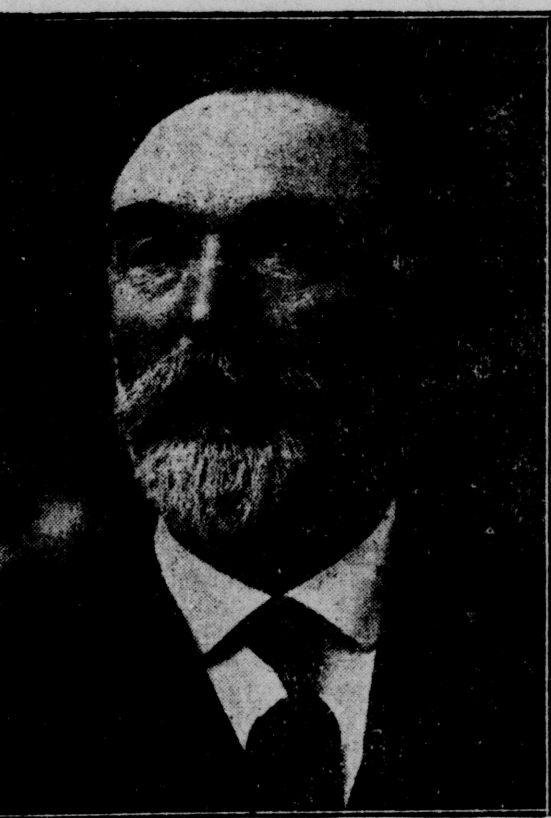

In some quarters Mr. Hearst's organization has been dubbed a "third" party, but this is rank flattery. New York, which once enthused wildly over Mr. Hearst, has grown cold and negligent, and its enthusiasm has almost reached the vanishing point. Unless there is a decided change of heart, Mr. Hearst's candidate will likely finish sixth in the race. The socialists and prohibitionists are sure to poll a larger vote, and it is likely that Thomas Watson will finish ahead of the Hearst man.

There only remains the socialist labor party, with its convict candidate. Whatever honor attaches to securing a larger vote than Mr. Preston, of Nevada, the independent party nominee will probably have.

"MASS" ON BATTLEFIELD

TO BE ONE OF THE MOST IMPOSING SERVICES IN HISTORY OF CHURCH.

THE POPE ADDRESSES CANADIANS

Catholicism Enjoys a Greater Liberty There, Possibly, Than Anywhere Else—The Defense of the Zouaves.

Quebec, July 25.—A state performance of the pageant on the Plains of Abraham, to be witnessed by the Prince of Wales, is today's feature of the tercentenary program.

Tomorrow his royal highness will attend special religious services in the English cathedral. The principal religious event of the tercentenary will be the performance tomorrow of the Messe Solennelle on the Plains of Abraham, a solemn mass on open battlefield, which will be one of the most imposing services in the history of American Catholicism.

Pope Plus X, in a papal bull, has addressed the Canadian people on the occasion of the tercentenary, commending the celebration, approving of the justice of British rule in Canada and paying a magnificent eulogy to the memory of Champlain.

The decree, which is very lengthy, commences with a recognition of the propriety and even the duty, dictated by gratitude, of celebrating, at proper epochs, the great deeds performed and benefits rendered by those who have gone before us.

"It is this duty of gratitude," says the pope to the Canadian bishops and people, "that it appears to us that you are going to accomplish upon the occasion of the tercentenary of the founding of Quebec and of the two hundredth anniversary of the death of Francis de Montmorency-Leval."

"Both from the greatness of these heroes and from the point of view of the importance of your city of Quebec, it is evident that the noble Canadian nation has good reason to honor this double event by special demonstration; and it is not to be wondered at that from even outside of your country there should be efforts to contribute to the brilliancy and solemnity of the fetes that are now so full of promise."

"We are anxious that our own voice should not be absent from this joyous concert of a grateful people. Our special affection and the close relations which unite us, forbid this."

"The church enjoys among you a greater liberty than perhaps anywhere else, and it gives us pleasure to recognize there the just influence of the British crown, at the same time as the courage and perseverance of Catholic citizens."

Speaking of the attachment of Canadian Catholics for the head of the church, the pope makes special notice of the Zouaves, who fled to the defense of the papacy when its temporal estates were attacked by its foes.

After insisting upon how much the Canadian people owe to the Catholic church, the pope says: "In the earliest days of your history appears the name of Samuel de Champlain, French by birth, remarkable for his genius as for his courage, but more still for his Christian wisdom."

"By the foundation and dedication of a temple he early consecrated the cradle of the city of Quebec, which was destined to be the center from which was to spread the influence of Christian civilization throughout the North American continent."

The letter also contains a beautiful eulogy of the various early Christian missionaries in Canada, Jesuit and others, some of whom died the deaths of martyrs, and lastly Mgr. de Laval and his doings are extolled, including his founding of the Seminary of Quebec, from which originated Laval university.

SEVEN WEEKS' CHASE FOR MAIL
POUCH ROBBER ENDS IN KANSAS CITY.

WAS TRACKED IN THREE CITIES

Secret Service Officials Followed Suspect's Movements in Denver, Topeka and in City Where Crime Was Committed.

Kansas City, July 24.—At 6 o'clock this morning the government secret service landed the $50,000 mail pouch thief.

The attraction of old haunts and old friends, these and a scar on the bridge of his nose, which habitually he covered with his cap, led to the capture of the robber. He is Charles Savage, a negro, and he was caught in a lodging house on East Twenty-first street. Four postoffice inspectors who had been following him for several nights made the arrest. The money which Savage stole has not been recovered. The postoffice police believe it is hidden in this city.

Ever since the postoffice inspectors had learned that Savage, an ex-convict, was spending money lavishly in Denver, they have tracked him. They followed him to Topeka and then to Kansas City.

Tracked Him Through Women.

For the last few days every lodging house in Kansas City formerly used by Savage has been watched night and day. Every woman with whom he had associated was tracked hour by hour. Savage was said to have been seen with a woman after midnight last night and to have gone to an old resort in East Twenty-first street. Fearing that an attempt to catch him in the night might result in escape, it was decided to wait until daylight. At 6 o'clock, therefore, these inspectors posted themselves at the house: George A. Leonard, J. C. Lindland, R. S. Brainer and E. A. McBride, chief clerk in the inspector's office here. Two of them entered and arrested Savage in bed.

The prisoner was taken to the federal building and questioned. He is so well known to the inspectors and has already been so thoroughly identified by the scar on the bridge of his nose, which he always tries to cover with his cap brim, that W. J. Vickery, chief inspector, says there is no possibility of a mistake having been made.

The registered sack for which government secret service men have been searching for weeks came from Kansas City the night of June 6 from Los Angeles. With others it was taken to a transfer car on a spur track, near the depot, which has been used for that purpose since the registry transfer shed burned a few months ago. A clerk in that car receipted for it. The car was unusually crowded that night because of the receipt of twenty-five cases of stamped envelopes in transit. This caused the piling of pouches nearer the door than was customary.

The night was particularly warm and the doors of the transfer car were wide open. In the shadows that always darken that part of the depot a negro stood watching the mail men at work. A Rock Island train, east-bound, was on the next track. Just as it moved slowly away the negro seized a sack, ran around in front of the locomotive and climbed aboard the platform, the "blind baggage," next the tender. He found two white men there, young fellows in hard luck who were beating their way out of town. Doubtless the negro was frightened. Without staying a moment to talk, he crept out over the coupling and up to the tender and, at his request, the white men handed him the sack or helped him with it.

Two or three miles out from the city the train stopped to pick up a Pullman sleeper. While it was standing the engineer saw the negro dragging something to the roof of the first car. Also he saw the two white men crouching on the front platform. The engineer cried to the negro to get off the car and he obeyed, first throwing the sack as far out as he could. Then he jumped, and although it was rather a long distance he was up almost instantly and started to run.

By this time the engineer believed the negro was too eager to get away. So he threw a piece of coal at him, hit him and knocked him over in the weeds. But negro heads are not easily broken. The negro was up again in a moment and disappeared, taking the pouch with him.

The night of June 6, when the pouch was stolen, was Saturday. At 4 o'clock the following morning Harry Arthur, a patrolman, arrested Charles Savage, at Sixth and Walnut streets for investigation, the usual charge being placed against persons who give no satisfactory account of themselves. At police headquarters the negro had $240 and a gold watch, rather good equipment for a negro arrested at 4 o'clock in the morning and unable to prove his right to be out at that hour. His name, he said, was Charles Stevenson.

Roland Hughes, a lawyer with offices in the New York Life building, received a telephone message that Sunday morning that a negro at police headquarters desired to see him. He went immediately and was asked

MR. MACK IS CHAIRMAN

BUFFALO, N. Y., NEWSPAPER MAN WILL HEAD DEMOCRATIC COMMITTEE.

WAS CHOICE OF MR. BRYAN

He Did Not Dictate the Selection, However, Leaving It Entirely to Members of the Body—Other Officers Are Named.

Chicago, July 25.—Norman E. Mack, publisher of the Evening Times, of Buffalo, N. Y., was chosen chairman of the democratic national committee today. He was Mr. Bryan's choice, and has long been his social and political friend. The principal obstacle in the way of naming Mr. Mack was Charles J. Murphy, of Tammany, who was opposed to his selection.

The meeting time, which was originally fixed for 10 a.m., was postponed from hour to hour.

Mr. Bryan did not attempt to dictate the selection, but said he would rely on the judgment of the committee in the choice of the chairman.

Other candidates considered were: M. J. Wade, of Iowa; former Gov. Jas. E. Campbell, of Ohio, and Timothy E. Ryan, of Wisconsin. After two hours of discussion, Mr. Mack was elected.

The other officers are: Vice chairman, Dr. E. L. Hall, of Nebraska; secretary, U. R. Woodson, of Kentucky; treasurer, Charles N. Haskell, of Oklahoma; chairman of the press committee, Henry Watterson, of Kentucky. John I. Martin, of Missouri, was selected to succeed himself as sergeant-at-arms.

Mr. Bryan and Mr. Kern lunched alone in the former's rooms, no one else being present.

SAME OLD STORY

Again the inquiry is made, what about that photometer?

HE CAN'T LOSE HIM

CROWDS STILL LARGE

ATTENDANCE AT THE CHAUTAUQUA IS STILL KEEPING UP WELL.

IN SPITE OF THE HOT WEATHER

Today Promises to Be One of the Most Interesting of the Entire Course—Music and Swallow Will Hold Full Sway.

Although it was oppressively warm a large crowd heard the Lyric Glee club give their opening concert at the Sedalia Chautauqua yesterday afternoon, and no male quartette that has ever been in Sedalia so completely captured the people. At night the Lyrics gave another enjoyable concert.

At 8 o'clock Kellogg Durland, the famous war correspondent, gave an interesting illustrated lecture on the Russian Revolution.

Today is to be a great day at the Chautauqua. At 2:30 the Lyric Glee club gives a sacred concert, and at 3 o'clock Lulu Tyler Gates presents "The Sky Pilot." There is not a more fascinating story than Ralph Connor's "Sky Pilot," and as Mrs. Gates give it is absolutely charming.

At 7:30 the Lyrics give another concert, after which Governor Buchtel, the preacher governor of Colorado, will give an address on "How We Got Our Bible." Gov. Buchtel is a many-sided man—an eminent preacher, a celebrated educator and a famous statesman.

Monday's program, like all the rest, presents rare features. The Dunbar male quartette and hand bell ringers in the afternoon, prelude in the evening, and Governor Buchtel again at night.

TO BOSTON IN AN AUTO

W. R. Caulkins and Son Stopped Over in Sedalia.

W. R. Caulkins and son, Roy, of Joplin, in the father's $5,000 automobile, "Winton," left that city at 7 o'clock Thursday morning, on their way to Boston, and arrived here at 3 o'clock Friday afternoon, remaining over as the guests of Mr. and Mrs. William Latour until Saturday morning, when the overland journey to the Hub was resumed, via Boonville.

Mr. Caulkins is the owner of the "Yellow Dog" mine at Joplin, from which ore to the value of $5,000,000 has been taken in the last four years. When prospecting was first commenced ed those associated with Mr. Caulkins lost hope and withdrew, referring to the prospect as a "yellow dog," but Mr. Caulkins held on and in time struck pay dirt, from which the mine in time developed into one of the very best in the Joplin district.

Has Figured It Out.

Chief Boulton has figured out that, taking sixteen blocks for a mile, an automobile running at the legal speed of six miles an hour will consume 37½ seconds in going one block. He says that he will time all the buzz wagons from now on, and if any of them beat that rate he will put the driver under arrest.

MISS BROWN WAS HOSTESS

In Honor of Miss Gertrude Weyland, of Boonville.

Miss Elsie Brown entertained twelve couples of friends at her West Seventh street residence Friday night in honor of Miss Gertrude Weyland, of Boonville, who is visiting Miss Sara Payne.

A guessing contest whiled away the time, Miss Fanny Smith winning first prize, a fan, while the gentlemen's prize, a picture, went to Paul Sauvain.

Singing and music by those musically inclined was another feature of the entertainment, after which refreshments of ice cream and cake were served.

POLL OF ALL THE STATES

Is to Be Taken by Mr. Hitchcock in Mr. Taft's Interest.

Chicago, July 25.—The second conference between National Chairman Hitchcock and the various state republican leaders was opened today.

Instructions were given for the preparation of a poll of voters of each state, as to nativity, religion, politics and other important facts in relation to every man.

The system has been employed for several years in Nebraska by William Hayward, chairman of the republican state committee.

"TURKEY GONE DEMOCRATIC"

So Said the Hon. W. J. Bryan in Chicago on Saturday.

Chicago, July 25.—Mr. Bryan arrived here this morning. He made no speeches on the way to Chicago. He evinced great interest in the Sultan of Turkey calling for a constitutional form of government. He said:

"Turkey has gone democratic. May be after a few more such nations have spoken, the republican leaders will concede the right of the Filipinos to a constitution."

WAS A HEARTLESS CRIME

GIRL TELLS HOW HER TWO BROTHERS WERE MURDERED.

NEIGHBORS SUSPICIONS AROUSED

Sister Then Gives Details of the Crime—One Was Chopped to Pieces, Other's Body Was Thrown Into a Well.

St. Louis, July 25.—Mattie Stamm, 24 years old, residing near Modoc, Ill., told Friday how her two brothers, Fred, aged 21 years, and Charles, 18 years old, missing for months, were murdered. She said the body of one was thrown into a well and the other was burned. A relative is under arrest in the Randolph county jail at Chester, Ill.

Fred Stamm disappeared July 4, 1907, and his brother, May 3, 1908. Their absence has been a mystery much discussed by residents of the vicinity, and rumors that they had been murdered have been circulated.

Sheriff Henry Burns, of Chester, Ill., has made several visits to the neighborhood of the Stamm home, but refused at the time to make public the object of his visit. He still refuses to discuss his reasons for the belief that the brothers were murdered.

Neighbors say neither of the sons had expressed any intention of going away, and that Charles Stamm, who disappeared first, was unable to account for the absence of his brother.

Mattie Stamm, sister of the missing brothers, told the authorities Friday that Fred was killed while at work on the bottoms near his home on July 4, 1907, and his body carried in a farm wagon to the house and thrown into an old well.

The well, which is choked with refuse, is being drained by a party of searchers and the county authorities.

The girl says Charles was killed on the threshold of his home on May 3, last, on his return from a fishing trip. She pointed out the spot where the body was placed on the floor of the house and kept three days. Then it was placed in a wooden box and burned at night. She said Charles Stamm was killed with a hatchet and chopped to pieces before being put in the box.

Lena, 15 years old, and Laura, 13 years old, two other sisters of the missing youths, deny the story of their sister. The three girls are alone in the old farm house.

Joseph Davis, residing at Modoc, Ill., told the authorities of a clash between Charles Stamm and a relative who is under arrest. He said he was working on the Stamm farm, roofing a barn, when the man who is in custody became enraged and threw a hatchet at Charles, but failed to strike him.

The incident occurred shortly before the disappearance of the younger brother.

Weight was added to the story of the sister when it was learned that on May 5, two days after the younger brother is said to have been slain after a desperate struggle in the door of his home, the relative who is accused of causing his death, visited a physician in Modoc, Ill. He was suffering from two fractured ribs and a scalp wound which he said he had received in a fall from a barn.

The man under arrest at Chester has so far declined to make any statement.

BRUTALITY TO CONVICTS

TESTIMONY IN THE GEORGIA GRAFT CASES IS MOST STARTLING.

CONVICTS WERE SOLD LIKE MULES

Former Penitentiary Employees Tell of the Brutality That Has Been Practiced by the Prison Officials.

Atlanta, Ga., July 25.—Startling developments were brought out at today's session of the legislative investigation committee into the conduct of the state prison board and the convict lease system. L. B. Strong, a merchant of Macon, formerly a convict testified that men were lined up at the prison farm and sold like mules. Sick and infirm men, he said, shipped in one day from a convict lease camp, were shipped out the next day in exchange to another lease.

Albert L. Rodgers, of Atlanta, told of the whipping of Joseph Frisby, a young white boy, for escaping from a camp where the witness said he was held illegally. A charge was made against Judge George F. Gober, of Cobb, by the witness, who testified that in a recess of court he visited Frisby in jail, received his confession and pronounced sentence upon him. J. W. Roberts, formerly deputy warden at the state farm, told how convicts are employed in competition with free labor in Milledgeville, when they could have been used on the state farm.

K. B. Foster, formerly in charge of the prison farm, told of the whipping of Mamie DeChrist and her forced employment at manual labor in the fields.

RAIDED THE HALF WORLD

Eight Alleged Immoral Women Were Arrested.

On complaint of Elliott M. Stafford, of the J. A. Lamy Manufacturing Co., eight inmates of alleged disorderly houses north of the Missouri Pacific railway station, in the vicinity of the factory, were arrested by Constable J. E. Love Friday night and summoned to appear in Judge Leaming's court Saturday morning.

Those arrested were: Nell Hall, Pearl Smith, Hazel Reid, Della Evans, Jennie Stowe, Mary Buster, Myrtle Smith and Ada Taylor. C. C. Kelly was employed to defend them.

Mary Buster and Myrtle Smith pleaded guilty and were fined $1 and costs each, while Jennie Stowe was convicted and a similar fine was imposed, a stay until next Monday being given to pay the fine.

Hearing of the remainder of the cases was postponed until July 28.

THE DISMISSAL OF CADETS

From West Point Is Approved by President Roosevelt.

Oyster Bay, July 25.—President Roosevelt has approved the dismissal from West Point of eight cadets found guilty of hazing underclassmen.

Secretary Loeb said today that the reinstatement of the men could be accomplished only by congressional action.

Result of Test Unknown.

A letter was received from the pure food inspector at Columbia, which states that no information was given out here as to whose cream stood the highest test in Sedalia. The letter can be seen at this office.

ASSAULTED WITH A CANE

CANDIDATE FOR SHERIFF OF BOONE COUNTY ATTACKS CITY JAILER.

T. C. SCRUGGS HELD ON $500 BOND

Remarks Made by the Latter During the Campaign Led Up to the Trouble, Which Occurred in Columbia.

Columbia, Mo., July 25.—T. C. Scruggs, candidate for sheriff, is out on $500 bond on the charge of assault on A. D. Tyson with intent to kill.

Mr. Tyson is city jailer. He was standing out in front of the holdover at 7 o'clock Friday morning when Scruggs came up Ninth street, carrying a heavy walking stick. Scruggs later stated that he was carrying the walking stick on account of a sprained ankle.

As Scruggs came up Tyson is said to have remonstrated with him over remarks made in the campaign. Tyson said he had not vilified Scruggs, and expected the same treatment. He referred to the existence of some papers, which, he alleged, would force Scruggs to withdraw from the race and leave Columbia.

At the mention of the papers, Scruggs slashed at Tyson's head with his walking stick. The jailer threw up his hand to guard, and caught the full force of the blow on his left hand.

A second swinging blow from Scruggs' cane caught the city jailer on the left elbow. Passersby on Ninth street then pulled Scruggs away. Dr. McMaster dressed Tyson's wounds.

A warrant for Scruggs' arrest was sworn out on charge of assault with intent to kill and his bond placed at $500. J. A. Stewart went on the bond.

Scruggs then stated that he wanted to swear out an affidavit to bind Tyson over to keep the peace. Assistant Prosecuting Attorney Don Carter prepared to take the affidavit, when Scruggs stated that he would not make the affidavit, as he could use the whole affair in the campaign.

PROTEST CAME TOO LATE

Dorando Claims He Was Interfered With in Marathon Race.

London, July 25.—Dorando, the Italian runner, assisted yesterday to the tape in the finish of the Marathon race, holds that he was interfered with by officials and, if left alone, could have finished without assistance. The protest was too late and was not entered.

Halswelle, the English runner, this morning "walked over" in the final 400 metre flat race. This race was run Thursday and declared void by the allegation that Carpenter, of Cornell university, fouled Halswelle. Carpenter was disqualified. Taylor and Robbins, Americans, withdrew.

Experts feel that Halswelle is hardly justified, as Carpenter and Robbins made better time Thursday than Halswelle today.

HELD ON A $1,000 BOND

Thos. Gorley, Charged With Having Ravished Stepdaughter.

Following a preliminary hearing, during which the prosecuting witness testified to facts already published in the Democrat-Sentinel, Thomas Gorley, a married man, engaged in farming northeast of Sedalia, was held to criminal court in the sum of $1,000 by Judge Rickman Saturday, pending trial on the charge of having ravished his 16-year-old stepdaughter, Kate Amos.

Hearing on the second charge, that of having carnal knowledge of the same girl, was continued until August 8, bail in the same amount being fixed in this case.

Attorneys Higdon and Powell represent Gorley.

Slightly Warmer: Today.

For President,
WILLIAM J. BRYAN, of Nebraska.

For Vice President,
JOHN W. KERN, of Indiana.

TO THE WORKINGMEN OF MIS-SOURI

The union men of Kansas City have issued the following statement to the voters of the state:

In presenting the name of the Hon.
William S. Cowherd for governor of Missouri on the democratic ticket, we are advocating the cause of a gentleman whose attitude toward labor in general and organized labor in particular, has at all times been absolutely fair.

Mr. Cowherd was born September
1, 1860, in Jackson county, Missouri, and was educated in the public schools in Lee's Summit and the University of Missouri.

He was assistant prosecuting attorney of Jackson county in 1885, and served four years in that office; was also first assistant city counselor of Kansas City in 1890.

In 1892 Mr. Cowherd was elected mayor of Kansas City, and made a great reputation in the winning fight for municipal ownership of the water works. As mayor of Kansas City his reputation for honesty, ability and fearless discharge of his duty was a notable one, and his treatment of labor was fair and just.

Mr. Cowherd represented the Fifth district of Missouri in the Fifty-fifth, Fifty-sixth, Fifty-seventh and Fifty-eighth congresses.

During the eight years of his service at Washington he dealt with many questions in which organized labor was interested, and his treatment of these questions always had the approval of the members of the labor movement.

He worked for the automatic car
coupler bill.

He favored the bill to regulate immigration.

He voted for the bill to provide for arbitration in railroad labor disputes, and to define the word "conspiracy"

He voted against the anti-scalping bill and the Lodge immigration bill.

He worked for a measure requiring street car lines in the District to give transfers, and against the bill allowing them to consolidate in such way as to favor a trust.

He voted for amendment proposed by the labor unions to the bill to amend the laws relative to American seamen, as follows: Strike out the words, "and also at the discretion of the court by imprisonment for not more than one month."

He opposed the army reorganization bill, at the request of organized labor of the country.

He worked hard for cheaper gas in the District, and for restricting the powers of the gas monopoly there, and for prohibiting the adulteration of food stuffs.

He favored the bill for the re-classification and increased pay of the railway postal clerks, for the increase of rural free delivery, and the better pay of rural free delivery letter carriers.

He voted for the amendment to the naval bill, requiring the enforcement of the eight-hour law in the building of vessels provided for in the bill.

We, the undersigned members of organized labor, who are friends, neighbors and fellow citizens of the Hon. W. S. Cowherd, herewith cheerfully recommend him to our fellow well worthy of your support.

WHAT ELSE WAS IN THAT 1904
BARREL!

That is an interesting story filtering out of the trials of Central America to the effect that President Cabrera, of Guatemala, contributed $10,- 000 to the republican campaign fund of four years ago in the hope of securing the "moral" influence of the United States in support of his conspiracy to overthrow the governments of his neighboring republics, anala-gize them and set himself up as ruler of the mercur. It would of course be impolitic to suggest that President Roosevelt himself had knowledge of the alleged bribe tendered the national committee by the Guatemalan imperialist, for, while it is asserted the committee accepted the contribution, it is also declared that the president failed to keep the supposed bargain and lent the power of the American navy and of executive diplomacy to quite a different purpose in Central America than that contemplated by the ambitious Cabrera.

It may be, of course, that the Guatemalans who pretend to be familiar with the incident are fibbing, though just how an invention of this sort would serve to get them anything from the Roosevelt administration in the crisis which now confronts Central America is not clear. We should like to take the republican national committee's word for the truth or falsity of the tale, but its reputation for veracity in regard to publicity of 1904 contributions is so badly impeached by a considerable quantity of reliable testimony that a denial by it would hardly remove the cloud of suspicion. The Cabrera contribution, if made, is, however, cumulative of the many good and sufficient reasons why the republican managers are opposed to campaign publicity BEFORE election, as well as why the real contents of the grossly "suspicious" barrel of 1904 will never be made known.

WILL YOUR STORE STAND THE TEST OF REAL ADVERTISING?

The sort of advertising that really focuses attention on a store, or an enterprise, a venture of any kind—that puts it squarely in the "spotlight," and holds it there—that sort of advertising is a TEST OF THE MERITS OF THE STORE or EN-TERPRISE. And it's a hard test.

A merchant who is "doubtful"
about his store had better put things right before he gets into the white light. For real publicity will uncover defects, as well as emphasize merits, in goods, in service, in any phase of store-keeping.

The stores that have thrived on big advertising have passed the severest tests. They have not been found wanting. That they continue to be big advertisers is proof of their having "won out" under the "spot lights."

When your store is ready for the test, make it boldly. To win is to be aligned with the big stores. Not to try is to never emerge from the ranks of the little fellows.

The latest balloon tournament was
"in the air" all right.

THE THIRD HOUSE

Sedalia, Mo., July 24.

Editor Democrat-Sentinel.

At the November election the voters of this state will express their choice for United States senator, and it is important for them to know, before they vote in the August primary for candidates for state senator and representative in the legislature, that such candidates, if elected, will,
by their votes, carry out the will of their constituents as it may be expressed at the polls.

Gov. Folk and Senator Stone have both stated publicly that they interpret the senatorial primary law to mean that the candidate for United States senator who receives the largest vote in the whole state at said primary will be entitled to the vote of every senator and representative elected by their party to the legislature. That interpretation of said law is universally conceded to be correct, and the law would be mean-less if construed any other way.

In view of the importance of this question, is it not due to the democratic voters in Pettis county that the candidates who are asking our suffrage for the nomination to the offices of state senator and representative, should, before the 4th day of August, publicly declare whether or not, if elected to the offices they respectively seek, they will cast their vote in the legislature for that candidate for the United States senate who shall have received the greatest vote in said senatorial primary? I believe the democrats of Missouri will elect a majority of the legislature and thus be entitled to have elected by that body a democrat for United States senator; and we don't want any such thing to happen in Missouri as happened in Kentucky
last year.

When the democrats of this state shall have fairly expressed their choice between the candidates who may aspire to the high office of United States senator, they will insist that such expression shall be made effective by the democrats in the legislature—and when that is done, all will be satisfied and will loyally accept the result.

But we want no "Dark Horse" or "Mystery Candidate" business in Missouri this time. Let our candidates for legislative positions speak out and let us know what they will do if elected. Respectfully—Democrat.

SECURED $200,000 FOR FAIR

Representative E. E. Johnston Did Effective Work at Last Assembly.

Representative E. E. Johnston, who is a candidate for renomination, has lived in Pettis county over a quarter of a century and is today one of the foremost citizens, a leading democrat, and has a record for honesty and cleanliness which stands unassailed, and every trust reposed in him has never been betrayed. He is fearless in the performance of his duties, is aggressive and enterprising.

Pettis county never had a more zealous representative than Mr. Johnston, and the success he has achieved in matters of interest locally and state-wide, is proof of his sincerity and faithfulness to his constituents. He works with an earnestness and desire to excel which has gained for him the general respect of his colleagues, who regard him as one of the most aggressive and persistent, yet upright and earnest, members of the house.

Mr. Johnston has been instrumental in having some of the best laws on the statutes enacted, the most important of which, on account of their general goodness, being the compulsory attendance at school law and the sixteen-hour railroad law, the latter affecting and serving to protect thousands of railroad men.

While attentive to affairs which concern the state generally, he never overlooks his home people in the slightest, and has always given them his very best service when anything that would serve to benefit Sedalia and Pettis county arises.

He was particularly effective and did splendid service for the Missouri state fair, which institution was given especial care and attention by him throughout the sessions, securing $200,000 as an appropriation to aid in the continued growth of the fair.

Mr. Johnston's record as legislator is brilliant and clean and his past experience will redound to future successes. He should, on account of his ability and patriotism receive the votes to return him to the next assembly to again represent Pettis county, and his past good service will doubtless give him the deserved honor.

Young Man There for Quite Other Than Sentimental Reasons.

She said it was a shame, an outrage. She was a timid, reserved girl, who gave no man encouragement to flirt, yet—

"There is that man," she said, "bothering the very life out of me. I don't know how many times he has seen me in the street somewhere and has followed me right up to the door. The next time he annoys me I shall get the hall boy to order him away."

She had occasion to speak to the hall boy the next evening.

"Do you see that man in the vestibule lighting a cigar?" she said. "I wish you would order him away."

"I can't," said the boy.

"But you must," she said, angrily.

"He has no business to be hanging around here."

"Pardon me, but he has business here," said the boy. "He lives on the third floor."

The "Woman of Stenay."

The name of the "Woman of Stenay" is revered in Lorraine as a national heroine. In the Napoleonic wars a detachment of Austrians visited Stenay and demanded a cask of wine. "The Woman of Stenay" promptly brought one, telling the soldiers they were welcome to her store, and drank a cup of wine to their health. The soldiers promptly drank, but in a few moments 400 men were writhing in agony on the ground; the "Woman of Stenay" rose from her seat, saying: "You are all poisoned! Vive la France!" and she fell back a corpse.

HAS A DOZEN CHICKENS

Dr. E. Nasse is Jubilant Over Some Springers That Came to Him.

Some chicken thief is probably bemoaning the loss of twelve young fowls, while Dr. E. Nasse, living in the 600 block on West Third street, is rejoicing over the former's sorrow, all due to an unusual incident that occurred one night last week.

A chicken thief had visited a coop in West Sedalia and secured a considerable number of chickens. En route home he was frightened by dogs barking and in his fright permitted a dozen of the springers to escape from him.

The young fowls made their "get away" in the above locality and made straightway for Dr. Nasse's chicken coop, where they are peacefully remaining, while probably the original owner is bemoaning their loss.

SECURED $200,000 FOR FAIR

Representative E. E. Johnston Did Effective Work at Last Assembly.

Representative E. E. Johnston, who is a candidate for renomination, has lived in Pettis county over a quarter of a century and is today one of the foremost citizens, a leading democrat, and has a record for honesty and cleanliness which stands unassailed, and every trust reposed in him has never been betrayed. He is fearless in the performance of his duties, is aggressive and enterprising.

Pettis county never had a more zealous representative than Mr. Johnston, and the success he has achieved in matters of interest locally and state-wide, is proof of his sincerity and faithfulness to his constituents. He works with an earnestness and desire to excel which has gained for him the general respect of his colleagues, who regard him as one of the most aggressive and persistent, yet upright and earnest, members of the house.

Mr. Johnston has been instrumental in having some of the best laws on the statutes enacted, the most important of which, on account of their general goodness, being the compulsory attendance at school law and the sixteen-hour railroad law, the latter affecting and serving to protect thousands of railroad men.

While attentive to affairs which concern the state generally, he never overlooks his home people in the slightest, and has always given them his very best service when anything that would serve to benefit Sedalia and Pettis county arises.

He was particularly effective and did splendid service for the Missouri state fair, which institution was given especial care and attention by him throughout the sessions, securing $200,000 as an appropriation to aid in the continued growth of the fair.

Mr. Johnston's record as legislator is brilliant and clean and his past experience will redound to future successes. He should, on account of his ability and patriotism receive the votes to return him to the next assembly to again represent Pettis county, and his past good service will doubtless give him the deserved honor.

MONROE & SPRECHER

Well Known Citizens Take Up Agency for Home Insurance Co.

Frank Monroe and I. N. Sprecher, are now representatives of the Home Insurance Co., of New York, in Pettis county. Messrs. Monroe and Sprecher bought the business of the late Adam Fischer from his widow and were formally commissioned by the company Saturday. The Home company is the biggest fire insurance company in the world and has a strong business in Sedalia and Pettis county. While the Home company does a general farm business, Messrs. Monroe and Sprecher will also write city business. They have arranged to accommodate all old patrons and one or the other of them will be in the office continuously, so that no one need fail to reach them either by visiting the office or by phone.

Mr. Monroe is experienced in the insurance business, and with the business ability of Mr. Sprecher the two ought to make a strong team.

Young Man There for Quite Other Than Sentimental Reasons.

She said it was a shame, an outrage. She was a timid, reserved girl, who gave no man encouragement to flirt, yet—

"There is that man," she said, "bothering the very life out of me. I don't know how many times he has seen me in the street somewhere and has followed me right up to the door. The next time he annoys me I shall get the hall boy to order him away."

She had occasion to speak to the hall boy the next evening.

"Do you see that man in the vestibule lighting a cigar?" she said. "I wish you would order him away."

"I can't," said the boy.

"But you must," she said, angrily.

"He has no business to be hanging around here."

"Pardon me, but he has business here," said the boy. "He lives on the third floor."

The "Woman of Stenay."

The name of the "Woman of Stenay" is revered in Lorraine as a national heroine. In the Napoleonic wars a detachment of Austrians visited Stenay and demanded a cask of wine. "The Woman of Stenay" promptly brought one, telling the soldiers they were welcome to her store, and drank a cup of wine to their health. The soldiers promptly drank, but in a few moments 400 men were writhing in agony on the ground; the "Woman of Stenay" rose from her seat, saying: "You are all poisoned! Vive la France!" and she fell back a corpse.

HAS A DOZEN CHICKENS

Dr. E. Nasse is Jubilant Over Some Springers That Came to Him.

Some chicken thief is probably bemoaning the loss of twelve young fowls, while Dr. E. Nasse, living in the 600 block on West Third street, is rejoicing over the former's sorrow, all due to an unusual incident that occurred one night last week.

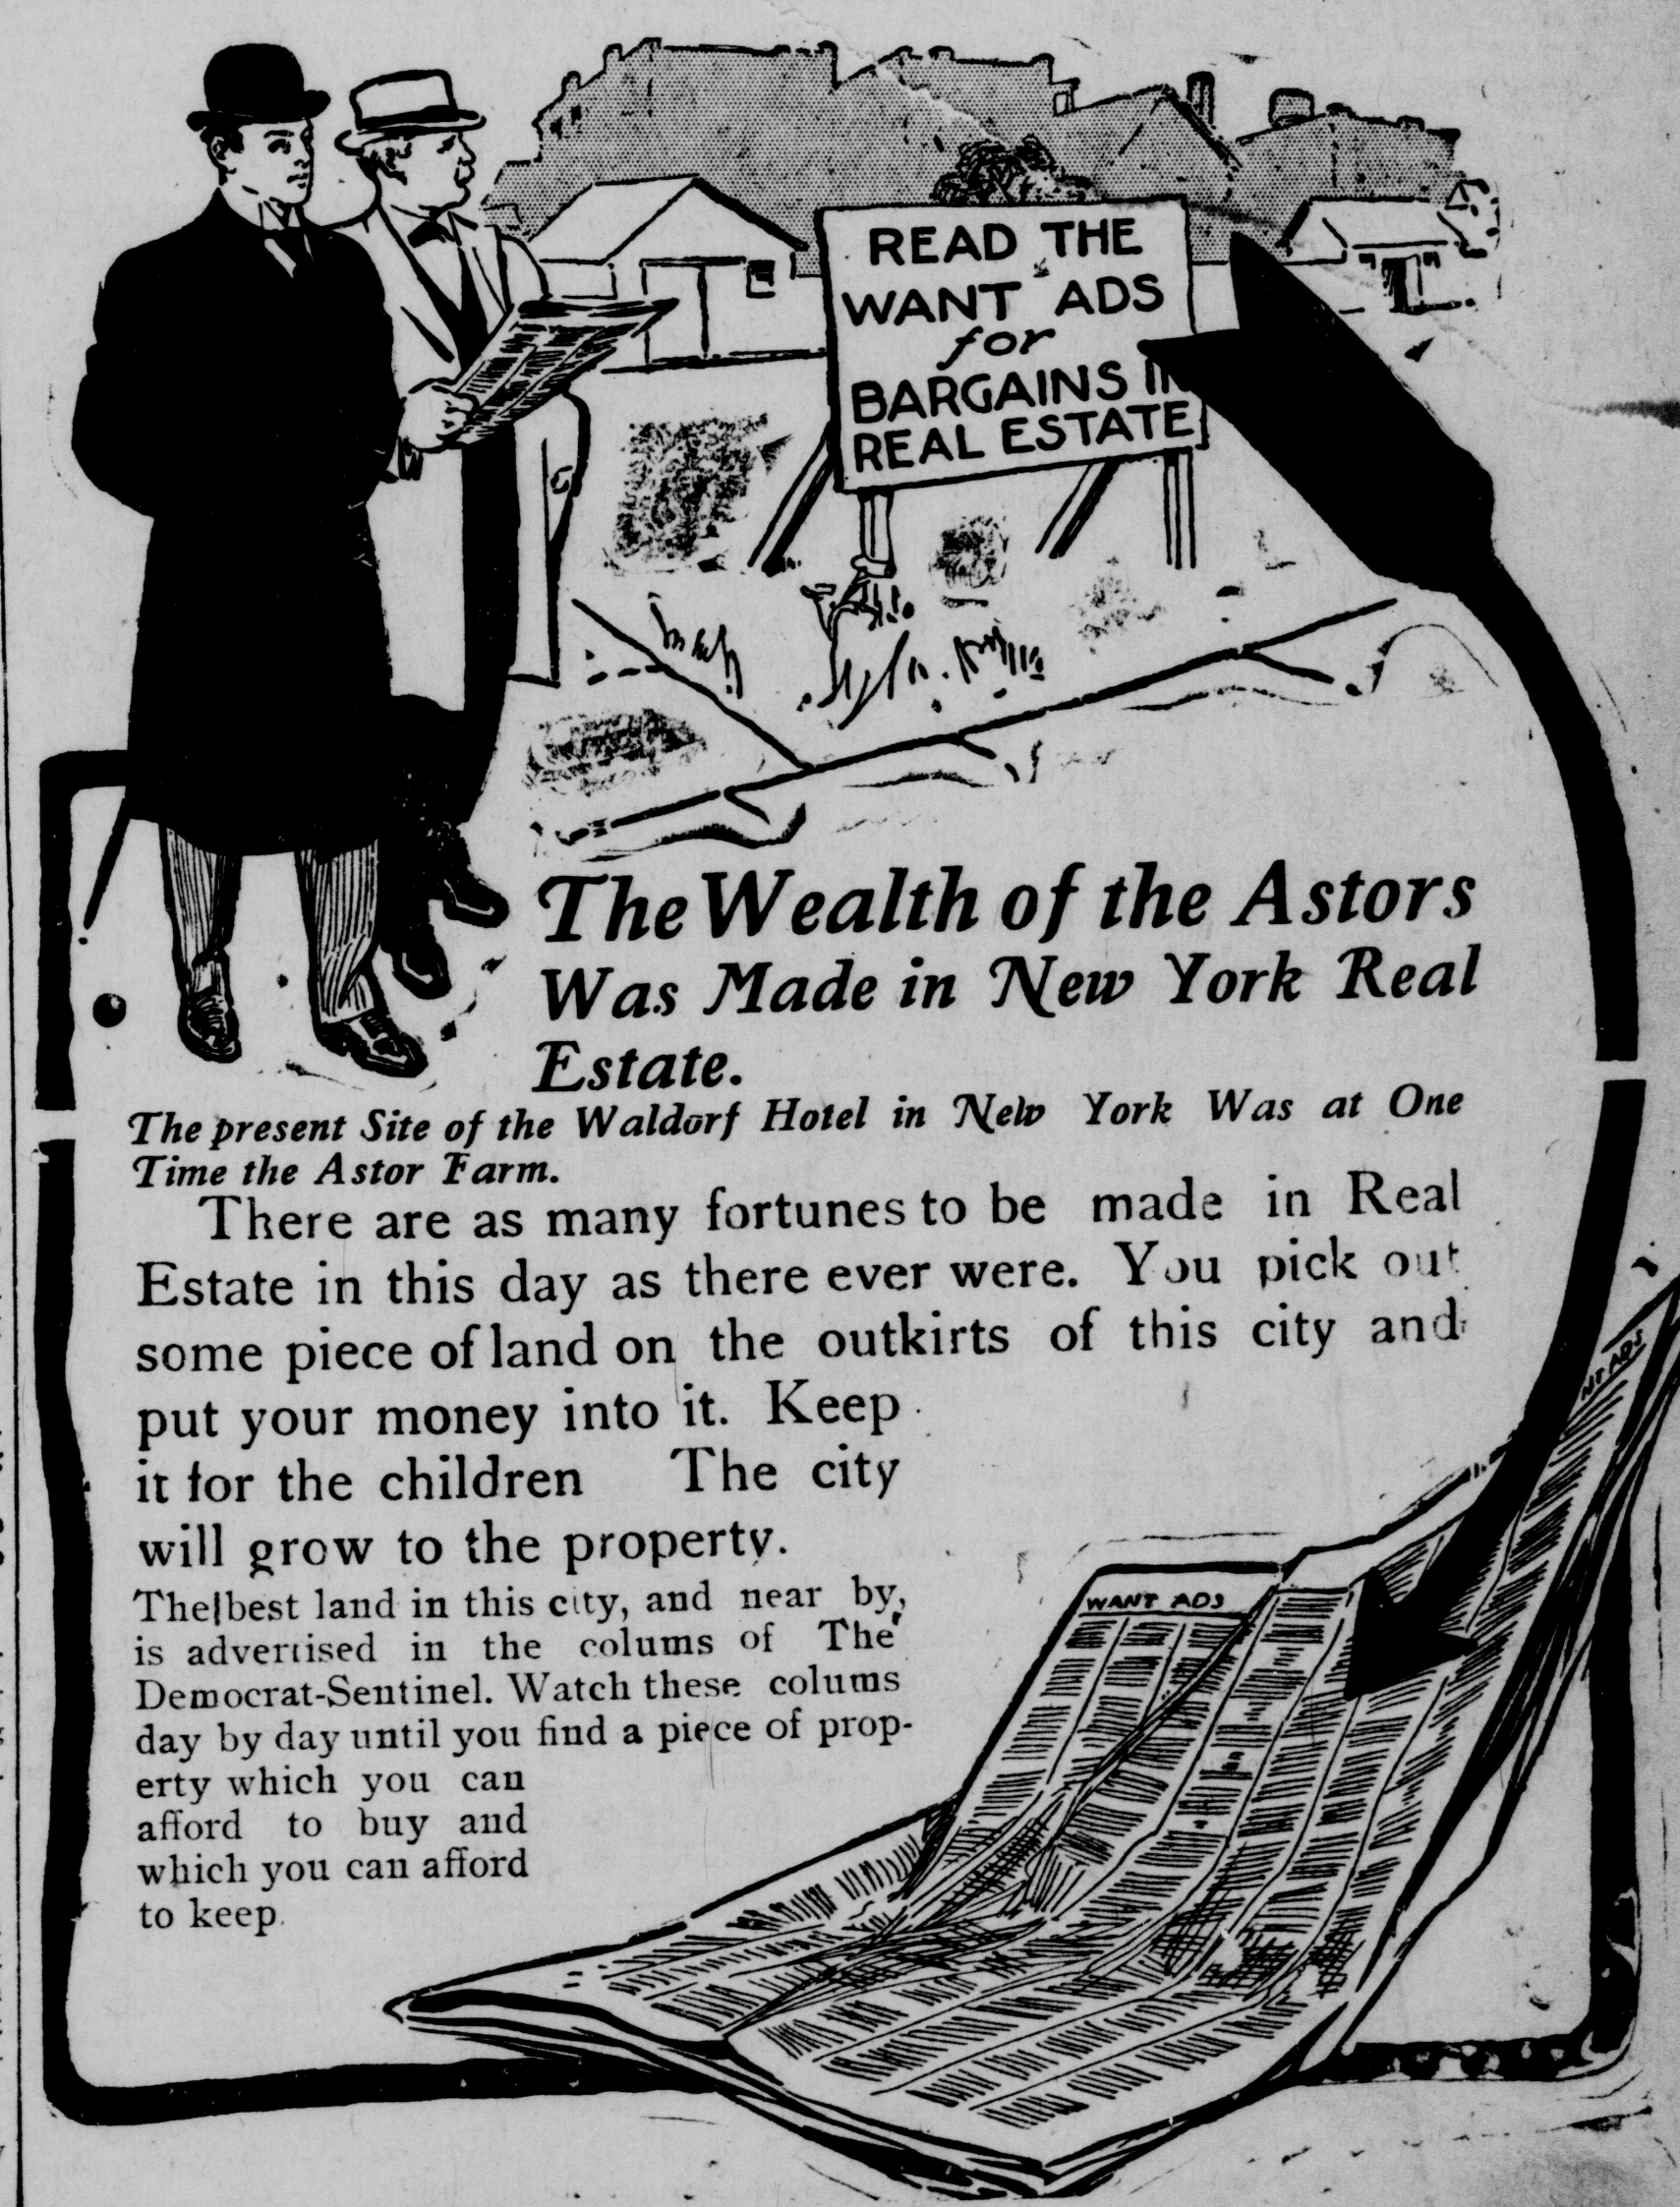

A chicken thief had visited a coop in West Sedalia and secured a considerable number of chickens. En route home he was frightened by dogs barking and in his fright permitted a dozen of the springers to escape from him.

The young fowls made their "get away" in the above locality and made straightway for Dr. Nasse's chicken coop, where they are peacefully remaining, while probably the original owner is bemoaning their loss.

WAS A GREAT BARGAIN

Grant Crawford Purchased the Old
Forest Park Property.

Ex-Alderman Grant Crawford Saturday closed a deal through Dr. J. W. McClure for the purchase of forty acres of ground, three miles south of the city, known as Forest park, the consideration being such as to make the sale one of the cheapest ever consummated in this section of the state.

The ground, which includes the theater building and house, was purchased from the Sedalia Light and Traction Co., original owners of the land.

Mr. Crawford bought the land for his own use.

EARLY FERNS OF SPRINGTIME.

Interesting Development of the Cotton
Into the Fiddle Head.

As real names, cotton and fiddle heads have not enough in common to bring them together in one title; but as fanciful names for the two earliest stages of the springtime ferns, the two are closely associated. The "cotton" fern soon merges into the "fiddle head."

Just as the buds of trees and shrubs are beginning to swell cottony tufts appear all over the ground of the lowlands in many places, and so close is the resemblance that at first glance it seems as if little balls or wads of cotton had there been scattered broadcast. These balls conceal the ends of the young fern fronds, the botanist using the term "circinate" to describe the form of rolling or unrolling. As soon as the fern has grown an inch or two in height the cottony appearance disappears and the "fiddle head" form becomes very marked.—St. Nicholas.

ENCOURAGING WORDS

C. C. LAWSON RECEIVES LETTERS OF COMMENDATION FROM FORMER HOME.

THEY ALL WISH HIM SUCCESS

Old Friends in Kentucky Write Pettis County's Young Lawyer, Encouraging Him in Race for Prosecuting Attorney.

Since becoming a candidate for prosecuting attorney C. C. Lawson has received many evidences of the esteem in which he is held in Sedalia and Pettis county, where he has lived for over thirteen years, and has found that he possesses many more friends than he thought he had. Of course, this has been very gratifying to him, but what has perhaps given him greater pleasure has been the receipt of so many words of encouragement and well wishes from his former friends and neighbors in Kentucky, where he was born and lived until coming to Missouri. These letters are from the most prominent and distinguished citizens of his former home, and coming as they do, unsolicited, are rare tributes to his character and record. Some of the letters follow:

From Major E. W. Hawkins, dean of the Campbell County bar:
Newport, Ky., July 21, '08.
Hon. C. C. Lawson, Sedalia, Mo.

Dear Sir: The news of your being a candidate for prosecuting attorney for Pettis county, Missouri, was just received here today in your good old Kentucky town, where you were born and reared to early manhood, and have left so good and pure a name. I need not assure you that the news gladdens the hearts of your hosts of friends, and excites the hope that you will easily succeed in securing the position for which they know you are so well suited.

There is a little incident connected with you and me and my lamented son, Butler (whom you greatly loved and admired, and whose early death so distressed us), which if the people of Pettis county could fully know and appreciate its force, would be for you a power in your canvass. Such a man ought to have any office he wants.

Your friend always,
E. W. HAWKINS.

From the judge of the circuit court of Campbell county, Ky.:

Newport, Ky., July 21, '08.
Mr. C. C. Lawson, Sedalia, Mo.

My Dear Friend: I have just learned from some of your friends in this county, that you are seeking the nomination for prosecuting attorney of your county. It pleases me to hear of your advancement. As I know of your worth and capability, let me wish you success. Early this year I was fortunate enough to be appointed circuit judge of Campbell county, and will be required to make a campaign this fall. So you see I will be in politics somewhat myself.

As I will be interested in the result of your efforts, kindly let me know the outcome. With best wishes for your success, I remain,
Yours truly,

CHAS. W. YUNGBLUT.

From the cashier of the Central Savings Bank and Trust Co.:

Newport, Ky., July 22, '08.
Mr. Claude C. Lawson, Sedalia, Mo.

Friend Claude: I have just learned of your candidacy for prosecuting attorney of your county, and want to express my sincere wishes for your success.

Your nomination will be a recognition of a true blue democrat by the local party, and if the people know you as we in Kentucky do, there will be no doubt of their choice of the man who will prove an able and honest prosecutor. I know that you are qualified and have the moral courage to discharge your duties fully.

I sincerely hope that you will win, not only for your sake, but for the good of your county and state.
Sincerely your friend,
JULE PLUMMER.

From Hon. Aubrey Barbour, ex-city councillor:

Newport, Ky., July 22, '08.
Mr. C. C. Lawson, Sedalia, Mo.

Dear Claude: I have just learned from your brother that you are a candidate for prosecuting attorney for your county.

I write this to wish you every success, to let you know that it is the belief of your friends here, that if in any way you measure up to the capacity of which you gave promise when you were here among us, you will certainly fill the office with honor and credit. Again wishing you good luck, I am,
Yours truly,

AUBREY BARBOUR.

From Hon. Thos. P. Carothers, ex-state senator:

Newport, Ky., July 23, '08.
C. C. Lawson, Esq., Sedalia, Mo.

Dear Lawson: I am glad to hear you are ambitious and are seeking political honors. If elected, which I sincerely hope you will be, I know you will give your people an honest, earnest and industrious administration of your office.

One little piece of advice, if you become a public prosecutor, don't get the idea in your head that so many prosecutors do, that every one charged with the commission of an offense is guilty, and above all temper mercy with justice always.
Your friend,

THOS. P. CAROTHERS.

From ex-judge of the county court, Campbell county, Ky.:

Newport, Ky., July 24, 1908.
C. C. Lawson, Esq., Sedalia, Mo.

My Dear Lawson: I was much pleased to hear of your candidacy for prosecuting attorney of your county. Your friends here feel grateful that your new neighbors confirm the idea we had of your worth when among us.

With hearty good wishes for your success, I remain,
Very sincerely yours,

OTTO WOLF.

CAUGHT $50,000 THIEF

his price for defending a man charged with vagrancy. Mr. Hughes told him it would cost $100. This amount the negro didn't care to pay, but when Hughes started away the prisoner said he would agree to pay $200 if the lawyer would get him free.

Hughes accepted the case, but when it came to trial in police court he was represented by his partner, Geo. P. Whitsett, a cousin of Walter Whitsett, captain in charge at headquarters. Savage was acquitted and the $200 attorney's fee was paid from his envelope in the property clerk's desk. That night he left Kansas City for Denver.

The police keep fairly close track of ex-convicts. Charles Savage, negro, was released from the federal prison on McNeill's island, California, July 27, 1907, where he had served one year for a mail robbery in Salt Lake City. This fellow's mother lives in Denver. Consequently when he was seen there last month spending money freely, when it was known that he had ordered two $50 suits and bought two or three diamonds for women, the police heard of it, and learning that his name was Charles Savage, began to inquire if any mail sacks had been stolen. The robbery in Kansas City had not been made public there. By the time it did come out, a day or two later, Savage had disappeared and the secret service men had begun their long search.

One of the strangest features in the case goes to show how thoroughly the government officers do their work, never despairing and never giving up. In some way they captured a suit case in a lodging house in Denver, believed to have been used by Savage. But they weren't sure. In it they found an old purse and in the purse a man's name. This man was found in Gunnison, Colo. His purse, he said, had been lost with a valise in Topeka, Kas., a few days before, while he left it for a minute or two in a passenger coach.

The detectives went to Topeka. There they found women who acknowledged that Savage had been there and that they had seen him have the purse with the Gunnison man's name in it. Savage had stayed in Topeka only a few days. Evidently he was going back to old haunts and old associates.

Another thing that interested the detectives was a Denver paper found in the suit case. It contained a story of a man who had stolen one quarter of a million dollars in gold from the United States assay office in Seattle and had hidden it before he was captured and sent to the penitentiary.

"About $50,000 a year to stay in prison," the story said. "Would you stay there for that much?"

FOR SUCCESS IN LIFE'S PATH.

Superior Mental Equipment is Not Absolutely Necessary.

If you are not very clever, don't be discouraged. It is not always the brainy man, or the positive genius, who makes headway. If nature has only given you average brain power, then make up for it by cultivating other valuable qualities.

Go in for genuine, honest work. Take a pride in doing every job well. Turn out the very best article you can produce. Do nothing as if it were trifling.

Earn for yourself a reputation for reliability and staunch honesty. Be known as "a white man." These are precious qualities. So is punctuality. Cultivate a habit of turning up promptly to time. Be as correct as an English lever watch. Redeem your promises. Be willing, keep your temper well under control, and, by your words and deeds, convince those around you that you are to be trusted.

Just, then, think of your chances, even if you are not a clever young person. Buck up, like a good sort, and succeed on these lines. There is heaps of room for this class of commodity.—Exchange.

Faults.

Thank God we do not live with saints! We live with people full of faults, and it is excellent, for the faults of others serve us either by imposing a salutary constraint or by the lesson that they give.—Translated from Le Figaro.
